YOUNG WOMAN PILOT KILLED IN CRASH PLANE AT MORRISVILLE; HUSBAND, FRANCHISE MARINE LIEUTENANT, HURT

The En Route from Binghamton Appears To Lose Flying Speed and Crashes in Wooded Section Near Airport—Janet Russo Dies After Admission To Hospital.

MORRISVILLE, Oct. 20—A young woman pilot fatally injured and her husband seriously hurt when a two-seater Fairchild piloted by the wife crashed in a wooded area near Morrisville Airport, Old Lincoln Highway, yesterday.

The dead woman is Mrs. Janet P. Russo, 22, of Potosi, Wis., and W. Hanover street, Trenton, N. J.

The injured man is Lt. James F. Russo, 24, of the Franchise Marine, who is in Mercer Hospital, Trenton, N. J., for treatment for a fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

Hospital attaches stated this morning that Lt. Russo was doing all right. His wife died just a few minutes after being admitted to the same hospital yesterday morning.

The plane crashed in the wooded area across the road from the airport as a landing was being attempted, it is stated, the couple being en route here from Binghamton.

Frank A. Pingitore, operator of the airport, and workmen who were rushing by ambulance to the crash, extricated Lt. and Mrs. Russo from the wreckage.

Eyewitnesses stated the plane evidently lost flying speed and dropped to the ground. The plane was completely destroyed, police state.

Russo served overseas for more than a year before attending Franchise Marine Officers' Training School. He died with physicians' assurance of his wife. The couple married in St. Paul's Methodist Church, Trenton, two years ago. Mrs. Russo's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Purple, reside at New Valley, N. Y. Lt. Russo is the son of Mrs. Anna Miller, Trenton, and the couple were temporarily living here.

An accident is being investigated by the Franchise Marine, and the Franchise Marine barracks, at State Police, and by the Aeronautics Association.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

A Bid of $75,000?

Washington, Oct. 20.—IT IS, perhaps, unfortunate, that the financial transactions of Elliott Roosevelt, seriously involving the reputation of his father, were not thoroughly thrashed out in the House committee with a public examination not only of Elliott but of Mr. Jones, Mr. Hartford, Mr. Baird and all others concerned, including Mr. Westbrook Pegler who made the disclosures.

ONLY IN that way could an end be written to this sordid chapter of the Roosevelt regime and a final judgment formed of the degree to which the late Mr. Roosevelt used his office—first, to help his son in borrowing from rich men large sums on unbankable security; second, to settle the largest of them at approximately 2 cents on the dollar. Making it a party issue, the manner in which the Democratic leadership succeeded in blocking a full investigation, inevitably has had two effects.

ONE OF these is to stimulate charges that the Democratic leaders were afraid to sift the business to the bottom lest it stain the whole Roosevelt Administration with which they were linked. Hence, they shut off the investigation and encouraged the Roosevelt worshippers to answer all allegations with a denunciation of "ghouls" and "Roosevelt haters." That, of course, is no answer at all. It does not touch the facts. It evades them. The other effect is to bring a fresh detail of Elliott's financial career both before and since his father's death.

THE LATEST of these was made public a short time ago by Broadcasting. Broadcasting is a weekly publication which has the same relation to the radio industry as Variety has to the theatrical. In its issue of October 1, Broadcasting printed an article describing recent negotiations of Elliott since he got out of the Army—in fact, "within the last few weeks"—to buy the radio station KWFC at Hot Springs, Ark. It asserted that a $75,000 bid of Elliott was turned down but that he is still "interested." The general manager of the station, Mr. Robert Choate, is quoted to that effect.

NOW, if Broadcasting has incorrectly stated the facts about his interest in the KWFC station and if he did not make an offer first, according to Broadcasting, of $50,000 and then of $75,000, Elliott should deny it immediately and compel a correction. For failing to make any denial of a story so prominently displayed in so important a trade publication seems equivalent to an admission.

EFFECT OF WAR STRAINS UPON HOMES MAY GREATLY INCREASE BURDENS OF BUCKS COUNTY GOVERNMENT

Howard G. Krupp, County Controller, Says We Have Reason To Be Alarmed at Increased Costs of Probation and Parole, Prisoners' Support and the Care of Dependent Children.

NEWTOWN, Oct. 20—The effect of war strains upon homes may be to greatly increase the burdens of the Bucks County government, Controller Howard G. Krupp said last night speaking before a conference of Bucks County Republican meeting here.

"We have reason to be alarmed at the increases in such expenditures as those for probation and parole, support of prisoners, and care for dependent children," the Controller said. "Last year, with an overall budget of about $700,000, a total of $69,000 was spent supervising law-breakers, and $69,000 caring for children.

"While we are changing over to peace, many will lose their jobs. A great many more men now know how to handle weapons—have been trained in killing. This is almost certain to mean that our courts and other county agencies will be flooded with many more cases, involving both adults and children, than in the past."

He declared that this situation emphasizes the need for the election of Republican candidates for the six important county offices to be filled next November 6, since there would be need for the utmost in experience and ability in handling these coming problems.

Present at the meeting were committeemen and committeewomen from Newtown Borough, Newtown Township, Upper Merion Township, Northampton Township, as well as Republican Party workers from nearby areas and the county and local candidates.

In addition to Mr. Krupp, who delivered the principal address of the evening, four other county candidates gave brief talks.

DAVID LANDRETH CANNOT USE NAME AS BUSINESS TITLE

D. Landreth Seed Co. Wins Federal Court Injunction As Result of Suit

MAY USE CONTAINERS

Must Cease Distribution of All Advertising Matter and Catalogues

By International News Service PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20—The D. Landreth Seed Company of Bristol today won a Federal court injunction preventing David Landreth from using his name in the title of any business he may henceforth undertake or be engaged in.

In a final decree handed down in Philadelphia yesterday, the court ruled that Landreth was entitled to use his name to identify himself as a "proprietor" of a concern, but that he could not use it as part of the title of a concern.

Under the injunction, neither Landreth nor any company with which he is associated may make any representations that he is a successor to the older Landreth Seed Company, which was formed in 1784.

The injunction, the court decreed, is to remain in effect as long as the D. Landreth Seed Company is in existence.

However, Landreth is to be allowed to continue the use of seed Continued on Page Four Members of the family of Miss Mary Headley, 19, of 123 Cedar street, having identified an alleged amnesia victim in Philadelphia as Miss Headley, left Bristol this morning to return her to her home. The girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Headley, Cedar street. The Headleys, who state that Mary had been missing from her home since last Sunday, read a description of a young woman who was taken to Nazareth Hospital by Philadelphia police yesterday, police stating they had found her in a dazed condition in a restaurant. The clothing and description of the girl fitted that of Mary. In telephone conversation with hospital attaches the family further identified her by a birth-mark.

BAIL LOWERED IN RYAN CASE AFTER HEARING BY JUSTICE

Woman Charged With Shooting Another Enters "Not Guilty" Plea

HEAR ONE WITNESS

Mrs. Howard McLaughlin Tells Story of Shooting Affair on October 1st

Pleading "not guilty" last night, Mrs. Catherine Ryan, wife of Thomas Ryan, Third avenue, was held in $1,500 bail charged with assault and battery, aggravated assault and battery with attempt to kill and violation of the firearms law. The charges grew out of the wounding of Mrs. Howard McLaughlin, 677 Garden street, by a bullet allegedly fired from a revolver by Mrs. Ryan.

The shooting occurred on the evening of October 1st, shortly before 10 o'clock outside of the McLaughlin residence. Mrs. McLaughlin was struck in the shoulder, the bullet then penetrating the tissues of one lung. She returned home from a Philadelphia hospital Wednesday.

CONSIDERS THE RURAL SUPPLIES OF WATER

J. B. Campbell, Head of A Waterwheel Co., Speaks To Exchangeites

SLIDE ILLUSTRATIONS

J. B. Campbell, president of the Campbell Waterwheel Co., Phila., was the guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Exchange Club at the Elks' Home, Thursday evening when he spoke on the subject, "Water Supply for Country Places and Towns." Campbell illustrated his talk with a number of graphic slides on his subject.

His address follows in part: "The source of all water supply is the rain that falls on the earth.

The beautiful rolling country of Eastern Pennsylvania is well watered. The average rainfall is 41 inches. On ordinary ground 45% of the rainfall sinks into the ground, and 55% flows off the surface.

By covering the ground with two inches of straw you can make 94% of the water sink into the ground.

By covering the ground with two inches of leaves you can also make 94% of the water sink into the ground.

By covering the ground with 1/2 inch of sand you can make 82% of the water sink into the ground.

A pine forest will absorb 93% of the water; a mixed forest 74%; an oak forest 70%.

Thus you can see why the cutting of the forests causes large floods and also causes springs and wells which are fed by underground streams to dry up.

I remember as a boy spending the summers on my uncle's farm, and he always placed 3 inches or 4 inches of straw under his tomato vines and let his vines rest on the straw. He knew in a practical way how to make the soil retain the water. Also, he placed straw under his potato vines.

It is of the water that sinks into the ground that I shall try to tell you most about today. While it is Continued on Page Four

PLASTIC IS OF AID IN REHABILITATION

H. Pearson Tells of Pleasure Secured by Men Working With Plexiglas

TRAVEL CLUBSPEAKER

The part which plexiglas, the bomber-nose plastic, is playing in rehabilitation of wounded veterans of World War II, was told to members of The Travel Club yesterday afternoon, when they were addressed by Henry Pearson, of Langhorne, designer of the plexiglas "Dream Suite" which is now touring the United States.

Mr. Pearson told of the instant interest manifest by the wounded men at Fort Dix, N. J., and also at Valley Forge Hospital, when they realize how readily it can be handled by an amateur with practically professional results. The occupational therapy activities at both centers were explained to the club women. Mr. Pearson stated that Robin & Haas Co. employees volunteered their services in setting up the required equipment, and then teaching the occupational therapy instructors and nurses at the two centers how to work with the product.

"The men were greatly pleased at the quick results with plastics, they being able to finish an item with a professional appearance in short order. This means so much to a man whose nerves have been shattered, and who has not yet regained his usual patience needed for work with other materials which would require hours of labor before noticing any results. 'Some of the men can't work too long at a time.'"

Mr. Pearson was introduced by Mrs. Maximilian Lawrence, war services chairman of the club. Mr. Pearson explained the maneuverability of plexiglas and told of many of its countless possibilities. "We haven't even scratched the surface yet when it comes to uses for the product," he commented. He showed how when heated this plastic becomes "rubbery" and is easily molded or twisted to desired shape, and held thus as it becomes cold and hard retains the new shape.

Many decorative plexiglas items for women's clothing, also door and drawer knobs, trays, egg basket, etc., were exhibited. The women showed keen interest as the guest speaker heated and twisted small pieces and with an electric drill made a decorative flower on one faceted piece, later tinting the whole a pale blue. "Plexiglas doesn't require a great deal of advanced knowledge, and is readily handled by an amateur. The men at the hospitals, anxious to find something to occupy their time, and to be actually making something are delighted with the many possibilities, and the manner in which their own talents can have say."

The spectacular effects when light is conducted through a crooked piece was of interest to all.

Mr. Pearson informed of the tremendous amount of scrap plexiglas which has been donated to the veterans' hospitals, over 50,000 pounds being donated in one month.

WOMEN ARE PART OF THE INFANTRY IN THE BATTLE FOR GOOD GOVERNMENT, SAYS SPEAKER

Miss Mabel Ditter, Attorney of Ambler, Addresses Fall Meeting of The Bucks County Council of Republican Women—Other Speakers Stress Importance of The Coming Election.

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 20—Addressing the annual Fall meeting of the Bucks County Council of Republican Women here yesterday at the Doylestown Inn, Miss Mabel Ditter, of Ambler, well-known Montgomery county attorney, and daughter of the late Congressman J. William Ditter told the women that they are "a part of the Infantry in the battle of good government."

Miss Ditter, who was introduced by Mrs. Howard Kooker, Jr., of Quakertown, president of the Council, told the ladies that "the active workers in their various home sections, are the important cogs in the political wheel."

The speaker said that it was always a pleasure to come to Doylestown to be with her friends, in addition to meet her favorite lawyer and cousin, District Attorney Edward G. Biester, who is a candidate for re-election this year.

Miss Ditter emphasized the great importance of the election this year—as did other speakers during the day. She said that just as much care should be exercised over the election of school board members and other offices, as for the county and state offices.

"Good government begins right at home, and you owe it to the Republican Party to be active this year," Miss Ditter declared. "Without workers like you who have been active from year to year, the Republican Party would be dead today."

"The party needs strong roots but at the same time the branches of policy should be developed and studied. A strong, national party-policy takes understanding and plenty of support right down the line from the top to the bottom. Never in the history of our country has it been so necessary that we understand the national policies of our party."

Miss Ditter called attention to the fact that six months ago a new President took office, and that at that time some folks thought that a change might be the result.

"But I can safely state today that the pattern in Washington has not changed a bit," she continued. "The pattern is the same but there are a few new faces. The budget advanced by the present national government for the first peace-time year after World War No. 2, is six times greater than any budget ever advanced by the Roosevelt administration."

"In looking over this new pattern we must now decide where the Republican Party stands. The Republican Party believes in national unity, tolerance of all groups in our nation, a direct contrast to the Democratic Party that has caused great divisions, such as capital and labor, the black and the white, and many others."

"And what is most important the Republican Party stands for a balanced budget, now that the war is over."

What Pennsylvania has accomplished in the way of good government since the Republicans took back control, was elaborated on by Franklin H. Lichtenwalter, of Allentown, majority leader of the State House of Representatives.

Representative Lichtenwalter also emphasized the importance of county-wide interest in the November election here in Bucks.

"I don't have much time for the person running for office who says that he does not need any organization support," the speaker declared. "It is the organization back of your group of Republican candidates that wins the election. You know your candidates here in Bucks and they are depending on your support this year and every year."

"Here in Pennsylvania it has not been an overwhelming Democratic majority that has caused inroads in our majority at certain times, but it has been because we have not aroused our own Republican friends to take an active interest in elections. When we have something worthwhile we should let it be known from one end of the state to the other, and throughout the nation."

"Certainly we should feel very proud of our Republican government here in Pennsylvania under the leadership of Governor Edward Martin."

The Allentown legislator briefly reviewed some of the highlights of Pennsylvania's accomplishments under Republican leadership. He reminded the ladies that Pennsylvania was the very first state in the country—long before Washington itself—to prepare for the best sort of things for the returning G. I's.

"The return of certain State funds to local governments, borrowed from the Federal Government, Continued on Page Four

Japanese "Low" on Medical Supplies, Fuel, Food

Tokyo—The Japanese reported to occupation health authorities today that they have sufficient hospital space but are low on medical supplies, food and fuel.

Col. C. F. Sams, Allied Public Health Officer, said the Jap report indicated Japan has more than 2500 hospitals with a total bed capacity of 155,654. These figures do not include hospital facilities in Nagasaki or the prefectures of Yamaguchi, Sava and Kumamoto.

Some 37,000 physicians are now practicing in Japan. Japan's railroads are also in a fair condition despite Allied air raids. The Japs reported to General MacArthur that Allied airmen damaged 12,358 passenger and freight cars and 891 locomotives.

To Compensate Belgium for Reverse Lend-Lease

Washington—The United States and Belgium announced today conclusion of a financial agreement to compensate the Belgians for a 90-million dollar excess in reverse lend-lease.

The problem was created by the fact that Belgium supplied 90-million dollars more in reverse lend-lease than she received from lend-lease from America.

The excess was due to the fact that large contributions of domestic goods were made available to domestic troops in the drive against Germany.

DDT IN THE GARDEN

Gardeners who have been indulging the rosy hope that DDT might be the answer to all insect problems are doomed to disappointment. On the basis of extensive tests and experiments made over a period of two years, the United States Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine reports flatly that the miracle insecticide is no panacea for the ills caused by plant pests.

DDT is not effective against all garden enemies, says the bureau, and its action is slower against some than such standard materials as pyrethrum and rotenone. It is of little or no value in combating the voracious Mexican bean beetle, among others, and its value is doubtful against scale insects, aphids, and plant lice on fruit trees.

Also, it has certain drawbacks. It kills honey bees and other good insects. Some plants, such as pumpkins, melons and squash, show injury when DDT is applied in even a weak dilution. A residue of it in the soil may retard the growth of some crops. Moreover, it must be washed off garden produce and some care is necessary in using it.

Still, according to the bureau, DDT has a bright future as a gardener's weapon. There is a long list of pests that succumb to it, including insects that dine on vegetables, fruits and ornamental plants. It is effective longer, under certain conditions, than other insecticides. It is less dangerous to handle than many standard compounds.

For the present the bureau advises caution in using DDT, emphasizing that manufacturers' directions be carefully followed. That counsel will still be good next spring when eager experimenters grasp the opportunity to try the new insect scourge.

MAKERS OF TOOLS

To avoid a bottleneck in the retooling of industry, the National Tool and Die Manufacturers Association has appealed to government officials to expedite the release from armed forces of top-flight craftsmen.

The men wanted are not what ordinarily are termed "essential workers." They are real experts. Their skill is needed at once to produce the special tooling without which key factories cannot speed reconversion. Most of this work is done in small contract shops, on which the large industries are almost completely dependent for dies, jigs, gauges, molds, cutting instruments and special machines necessary for the making of new models of any product.

The number of trained tool-makers in the armed services is very small. They can do the country much more good in machine plants at home than in mounting guard in a foreign country.

President Truman wants the world to adopt the Golden Rule, but so far Stalin has been unable to find any reference to it in Russian books.

REDSKINS' LOSE BY FAILING TO CONVERT A POINT

Langhorne XI Loses To New Jersey School For Deaf

SCORE ENDS AT 7 TO 6

Only Score for Bucks Team Result of Righter's Toss To Schneider

TRENTON, Oct. 20.—Failure to convert the extra point prevented the Langhorne Redskins of getting a tie in a gridiron tilt. Yesterday afternoon, the Langhorne team lost to the New Jersey School for Deaf, 7-6.

The only Langhorne score of the game came in the third period when "Doc" Righter tossed a 20-yard pass to "Inky" Schneider who scored without trouble. Schneider went back to attempt the extra point but it seemed as if the entire Deaf School line was atop him before he could get the ball off.

The N. J. S. for Deaf counted their touchdown and extra point in the second session when Hutton went over after a sustained march of 50 yards. Hutton scored on a short line buck. The Deaf School half-back then placed-kicked the conversion point which ultimately decided the issue.

ough, township and county, is the result of business-like Republican administration in Harrisburg," Mr. Lichtenwatter pointed out. "We have decreased our taxes $45,000, 000 under Governor Martin and we have increased the efficiency of the state government to the same extent, in the way of service.

"Pennsylvania has the highest mandate teachers' salary ratings in the nation, and Pennsylvania now has a surplus of $110,000,000 compared to a terrible deficit under a previous Democratic administration.

"So far as the returning G. I. is concerned I would like also to state my opinion that many problems cannot be handled by either the Federal, State or county governments, but that in many instances the rehabilitation of the G. I. is a community problem to handle. Pennsylvania's returning G. I.'s are getting better treatment than most any others in this country."

Representative Lichtenwatter, who has been serving as chairman of an investigating committee appointed by Governor Martin to expose the installment swindlers and loan associations in Pennsylvania doing business in automobiles, women's fur coats and many other items, related how the Republicans in the state legislature have backed this investigation 100 per cent and how the Democrats have been opposed to it.

"So in selling the Republican ticket for the November election to your friends, you have many outstanding points to present; we have the dependable ticket, now it is up to you to give it your support."

In a very brief message, Mrs. Hannah Durham, of Allentown, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women, outlined the highlights of the 1945 convention of the State Council to be held in Harrisburg, starting November 13. She also told the ladies that after the vote is counted in November, the people of other States will be looking over our totals to form their opinion as to how Pennsylvania will do in future elections. She predicted victory for the Republican candidates for the Superior Court.

Following the dinner, greetings were extended by Republican County Chairman A. Harry Clayton and Chief Assessor Edward B. Watson. Republican county candidates who were introduced and spoke a few words at the morning session included District Attorney Edward G. Biester, candidate for re-election; Isaac Gross, for Prothonotary; Howard M. Gilbert, for Recorder of Deeds; and Raymond Ahlum, candidate for Sheriff.

During the business session, the Council pledged a donation of $100 to the State Council.

Mrs. John W. Cooper, of Pineville, past president of the Council for 10 years and a very active member of the executive committee of the State Council, paid a fitting tribute to the loyalty and faithfulness of the late Mrs. Horace Effrig, of Newtown. Mrs. Cooper in her remarks said in part: "I know of no more loyal supporter to the Republican Party anywhere and to me when I was president of the Council, than Mrs. Effrig—she was a true and loyal friend."

A committee on resolutions to write a tribute in memory of Mrs. Effrig was appointed by Mrs. Kooker as follows: Mrs. John W. Cooper, Pineville; Mrs. Calvin S. Boyer, Doylestown; and Mrs. J. Herman Barnsley, Newtown.

Mrs. A. Oscar Martin, of Doylestown, chairman of the Council's membership committee, made a plea that the membership goal of 500 be reached before the next meeting. She suggested that some evening meetings be arranged so that the younger women might be better able to attend.

The report of the legislative committee was submitted by the chairman, Mrs. George Robbins, of Lower Makefield Township. She reported recent political meetings in Bucks county. She also emphasized the importance of doing all that is possible for the returning service man. Mrs. Robbins deplored the fact that many of the G. I.'s are coming home to a period of unrest and war at home with labor.

"Employers and employees should get together and iron things out; they should meet and discuss affairs on an even level and until they do, not much improvement can be expected," she declared.

Future programs of the Council were announced by Mrs. William Loughery, of Newtown, which include a luncheon meeting at the Doylestown Country Club on November 27.

Mrs. Kooker announced the appointment of the following delegates to the State convention: Mrs. Kooker, as president, and Mrs. A. Newlin Hellyer, Doylestown; alternates, Mrs. Marco Bean, Sellersville, and Mrs. Edward B. Watson, Mechanicsville.

Fallsington Boys Outplay The Industrial School Eleven

TILT AT EDDINGTON

Nine First Downs Credited To the Team From Falls Township

EDDINGTON, Oct. 20.—The Falls Township eleven and the St. Francis Vocational School team battled to a 0-0 stalemate here yesterday afternoon.

The Fallsington boys outplayed the St. Francis lads but lacked the necessary punch to register a touchdown. Nine first downs were credited to the Falls team while St. Francis had three.

The DeRisimen almost scored in the second quarter when they were but two feet away from touchdown. They had two downs to make it and Dick Ellis made both attempts. He missed on the first try and then went over but a Fallsington player was off-sides and St. Francis chose the penalty to receive the ball.

The largest gaining play of the tilt came in the third period when George Hartley heaved a pass to Freddie Hibbs which was good for 40 yards.

Dick Ellis and M. Pezza were outstanding for the Fallsington team while Don Oppold ripped off the most yardage for the St. Francis lads with Campbell playing a fine defensive game.

During the business meeting, with Mrs. Neher presiding, Mrs. Foell gave minutes of the last meeting. During balloting for new members, Mrs. Andrew T. MacArthur and Mrs. Roy Tracy served as tellers. Renovation of Mrs. Robert Ruehl as a member of the club was accepted with regret.

The president called attention to a consumers' council in Philadelphia next week; also to the showing of color slides of native Pennsylvania wildflowers at New Hope Methodist Church on October 27th at two p. m. Mrs. Neher read to members an interesting and helpful article regarding a wise approach on the part of the home-maker and the public in general to a healthy reconversion, being careful in buying articles that are scarce.

Now, with the removal of gas rationing, members from Emille, Bristol Terrace and Landreth Manor have evidenced a desire to resume former activities of the association.

Before the war the Edgely PTA had an enviable record of activities and accomplishments in promoting many the parent-teacher programs. Andrew Jackson, supervising principal of Bristol Township schools, will be in attendance.

All interested residents of the Edgely area are urged to attend the meeting.

Considers the Rural Supplies of Water

hidden from view, it flows along just about the same as the water on the surface. It flows where it is the easiest for it to flow.

When a drop of water falls on the ground, it goes straight down until it reaches an obstruction—a ledge of rock or a bed of clay which it cannot penetrate. It follows along on the top of the rock or the bed of clay until it reaches a crevice, and down the crevice it goes until it strikes another obstruction which turns it aside and alters its course.

As it goes along its way down through the earth, it may meet other drops of water, and soon the drops of water combine to form a little stream, and the little stream flows along on through the crevices in the rock until possibly it meets a bed of clay or solid rock which Nature has put across its path.

The bed of clay or the solid rock may force the little stream to the surface causing a beautiful Spring.

Since the water has gone through the earth it has been protected from the rays of the sun, and it has taken on the temperature of the earth through which it has flowed, and when it is forced to the surface by the bed of clay or the solid rock, it is now cold water instead of the warm water which fell on the earth in the form of rain.

Other drops of water which combined to make a little stream in the earth did not meet a dam of clay or solid rock. They went on down into the earth following the line of least resistance through the crevices in the rock.

We will suppose that one day a well driller sets up his drilling rig over the top of the little stream, coursing its way down through the crevices of rock. He starts his drill operating up and down inside an iron casing. As the drill operates, the casing sinks down through the earth until it strikes rock and then it can go no further. The drill goes on down through the rock and strikes the little stream of water. The driller knows by the feel of the drill that he has struck water so he lifts the drill and balls out the hole to see how much water he has. Perhaps it will not be enough for the owner's needs so he keeps on drilling. Farther down he strikes another stream of water flowing through another crevice in the underground rock. The first stream of water falls down the well and joins the second stream of water so that the owner now has two streams of water instead of one, and the flow of the combined streams may be enough for his needs.

When many of the large skyscrapers were built in lower New York, a great deal of cold, underground water was struck in putting down the foundations. To stop the flow of the underground water, thousands and thousands of dollars were spent. Now engineers and architects realize that these underground springs could have been used to air condition many of the buildings which stand over them.

Every country place in Eastern Pennsylvania has the possibility of being air conditioned by partly air conditioned by the water from a spring on the place.

The cities and towns of that part of the State of New Jersey just across the Delaware from Bristol have a marvelous source of water supply. Most of the towns and cities of Pennsylvania have to depend upon open streams for their water. Only a few fortunate ones can obtain an adequate supply from wells, and a few favored ones have large springs near the towns from which they can get their water but all that the towns of New Jersey east and south of Trenton have to do is to drill down into the earth where there are rivers of underground water. The rivers are protected by nature against contamination. It seems so strange to me that on one side of the Delaware River Philadelphia has a difficult and expensive time obtaining its water supply while on the other side of the river a few hundred yards away Camden has such a comparatively easy time obtaining its water supply.

Philadelphia obtains its water from both the Schuylkill and Delaware rivers which by the time they reach Philadelphia are pretty dirty. On the other hand, Camden has only to dig wells down through the clay beds under the town and into the layers of gravel and sand and obtain all the clear, pure water that they need. The reason for this is the change in the geological structure of the earth in the few hundred yards between Philadelphia and Camden.

If one drills down in Philadelphia, he strikes solid rock or a rotten rock formation or a heterogeneous conglomeration of sand and gravel and clay but when one drills down in Camden, he goes through alternate layers of a dense gray clay and sand and gravel. The gravel is the most beautiful clean white gravel that I have ever seen."

tin was plainly dressed, wearing a tan colored coat. She looked pale and wan, and showed evidence of weakness and nervousness. Mrs. Ryan wore a complete black outfit with hat to match, and a half veil. The only color was an adornment of her hat. A black bag was suspended by a strap from her shoulder.

Justice Brady read the charge to Mrs. Ryan, and her attorney, J. Leslie Kilcoyne, Esq., immediately entered a plea of "not guilty."

Neither woman gave any sign of recognizing the other, although they sat almost opposite in the small office of Justice Brady. Neither did the women's husbands give any sign of recognition of each other.

The only evidence taken was that sufficient to make out a case to hold the defendant for court. Attorney Kilcoyne suggested a reduction in the bail and Justice Brady put it at $1,500 instead of $2,000 which it had been during the time that Mrs. McLaughlin was confined in the hospital.

Mrs. McLaughlin testified in a clear and rather nervous voice, and said that as she was upstairs in her home, she heard an automobile horn and went outside to see who it was. Mrs. Ryan, according to the witness, was lying on the front seat of the car with her feet to the left. She raised up, got out, and Mrs. McLaughlin said she saw that she had a pistol in her hand. The two women exchanged some words about Mrs. McLaughlin's husband. Mrs. Ryan is reported to have said she wanted to see Mr. McLaughlin but was told by Mrs. McLaughlin that she couldn't as he was upstairs and was not dressed. To this the defendant is said to have made a trite remark. Then it is alleged by Mrs. McLaughlin that Mrs. Ryan pointed the gun at her (Mrs. McLaughlin's) forehead, and pulled the trigger. The witness testified that she heard the gun click, but it did not go off.

It was testified by the witness that Mrs. Ryan asked to see Mrs. McLaughlin's husband. Mrs. McLaughlin returned to her home and dialed the telephone operator with the intention of summoning the police but she says she was prevented from completing the call by her husband, who had come from upstairs dressed in only his undershirt and shorts.

Mrs. McLaughlin went outside the second time and she and Mrs. Ryan again exchanged words, it is stated, and this time Mrs. McLaughlin testified she grabbed the barrel of the pistol with her right hand, the pistol still being held by Mrs. Ryan, and then she slapped Mrs. Ryan in the face with her left hand. For doing this the witness told Justice Brady she told Mrs. Ryan, "I'm sorry." Then, according to Mrs. McLaughlin Mrs. Ryan shot her.

Mrs. Ryan was held for the next term of court.

Effect of War Strains May Greatly Increase Burdens of Bucks Co. Government like a piece of machinery," Hon. Edward G. Biester, nominee to succeed himself as District Attorney, told the gathering.

"If it is allowed to stand idle, it gets rusty. But if it is put in use, it improves in efficiency. That is why meetings of this kind are so important. You party workers are in the front lines of a fight to keep Bucks County administration on a high level."

Isaac N. Gross, Republican candidate for prothonotary, said that a good deal of the success of county elections depends on the rural districts, and predicted a Republican sweep in the farming areas of the County.

"The more we do this year, the easier we make a Republican victory next year," said Howard N. Gilbert, candidate for Recorder of Deeds. "The election next year is very important, for we are to elect a U. S. Senator and all Congressmen, and we want to be sure to elect another good Republican governor."

H. Raymond Ahlum, candidate for Sheriff, was presented and spoke briefly. When he was introduced, it was announced that his son, Harvey R., a naval yeoman recently in Sicily, had just flown from Paris to Washington, and hoped for a furlough home soon.

Presiding at the meeting was Republican County Chairman A. Harry Clayton. Among others who were presented were Edward B. Watson, secretary of the Republican County Committee, and founder of the Loyal Republican Club at Buckingham; and Edward J. Pierson, of Parkland, member of the Executive Committee of the Bucks County Republican Committee.

The Controller, whose function is that of helping prepare the annual budget for county expenditures, and then following through to see that the budget is observed, outlined the various duties of the county officials.

He showed how careful administration of county affairs had reduced expenditures and given the county one of the lowest tax rates for the State's 67 counties.

When Mr. Krupp was introduced, it was mentioned that he is one of the outstanding County Controllers of the State, and that within the last few days he was honored by being made vice-president of the Pennsylvania Association of County Controllers.

Following the meeting, there was a social hour during which refreshments were served, with the local committee as hosts.

Number of Divorces Triples in Bucks Co.

according to the records in the Prothonotary's office.

In the office of the Clerk of Orphans' Court where the marriage licenses are granted, the docket shows that so far this year including yesterday's business, a total of 717 marriage licenses have been granted, compared to 1901 marriage licenses granted over the same period of time in 1940.

These two records compared show that divorces started have tripled in four years whereas the marriage licenses have fallen off slightly more than 10 per cent.

Attorney John P. Betz, Jr., of Bristol, who was transacting business in the Prothonotary's office when a newspaper reporter was checking up on the number of divorces started so far this year, had this comment to make:

"There were just as many people who wanted divorces in 1940 as in 1945, but they didn't have the money then, like they do now."

A divorce in Bucks county costs on the average of $250 and takes anywhere from four months to five years to obtain, depending on the individual case. At that it is cheaper to secure a divorce in Bucks county than in some other jurisdictions—Philadelphia for instance, where the minimum is about $350. The master's fee in Bucks county is $75 compared to $100 in Philadelphia county.

Deputy Prothonotary LeRoy E. Smith said yesterday that so far this year a total of 145 divorces have been started in Bucks county and of that number 84 have already been granted. Back in 1940 there were 51 divorces granted during the first 10 months of the year.

Marriage licenses granted so far this year number 717 compared to 1901 during the first 10 months of 1940, the year before Pearl Harbor. The decrease in the number of marriage licenses granted over four years ago is of course due to the war.

With peace declared, the marriage license business is picking up in Bucks county, as service men return home daily. So far this month for instance there have been 61 marriage licenses granted.

Court Stenographer Edgar Moore, of Lansdale, who takes most of the testimony in Bucks county divorce cases, said yesterday that the majority of divorces are granted for reasons of indignities to the person and cruel and barbarous treatment, with desertion coming next. Records show that in previous years before 1940 that desertion was the leading cause for divorce.

As a result of the war conditions, a decrease in the divorce rate is not expected for some time to come. When the unhappily married have money to spend, they do not hesitate to spend it on a divorce, attorneys contend.

lent to admitting its truth. And if it is true, then people who read or heard about it are certain to ask a number of very pointed and unpleasant questions. First, they naturally would ask where he got this $75,000? Did he not state in his deposition to the House committee that all of the money he borrowed (totaling well above half a million) had gone into his former radio business and been lost? Did he not depose that he had been cleaned out, had no money left? Therefore, where did he get $75,000? Did he borrow it? If so, how, from whom, when and on what terms?

FINALLY, they would ask—and be entitled to ask—if he has $75,000, why, as a man of honor, does he not use it to pay off some of those debts which were settled through his father, at such an absurd discount? And, if he feels no moral obligation to use what funds he may have partially to reimburse men like Mr. Hartford, Mr. Baird and others from whom he borrowed, why does he not at least reimburse Mr. Jesse Jones, who, at his father's request, took hold of his tangled affairs and "straightened them out," settling the $200,000 loan from Mr. Hartford for $4,000 and a $50,000 loan from Mr. Baird for $500? And others?

MR. JONES has stated that he paid this $4,500 out of his own pocket; that he was not reimbursed by Mr. Roosevelt at whose request he had acted and has not been paid by Elliott. One certainly would assume that Elliott would use the first $4,500 he got hold of to pay Mr. Jones—if he could not pay anyone else. And there is another interesting question—as to how much the Internal Revenue Department should be concerned about this $75,000. The department permitted Mr. Hartford to deduct his $195,000 loss from his tax. Presumably others who lost the money they loaned Elliott made similar deductions. But the department did not compel Elliott to pay income tax on the moneys he gained through these loans, the theory being that he had lost it all in his business and was broke.

IF NOW he turns up with $75,000 it would seem the business of the department to inquire about it. Is this income? Was it a loan or a gift? If the broadcasting statements are true, Elliott should explain to the department and to the public—and it would seem, pay a tax. If they are not true, it would seem in his interest to deny them. In all this unpleasant story of Elliott's loans and settlements one fact continues to protrude—somebody owes the Government. And up to date nobody has paid the Government. The rich men from whom Elliott borrowed lost nothing because they deducted their losses from their income tax. Elliott certainly lost nothing. The only losers are Mr. Jones, who "straightened things out" at a personal cost of $4,500, and the Government, which means all the other taxpayers.
